Proud Parents Delighted When Exam Recital Proves Entertaining

MORINVILLE—An afternoon recital of music of Morinville, St. Albert and Edmonton was given in the Recreation Centre last Sunday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. A large number of parents were present to hear their children perform and to obtain the results of the examinations which ended this week.

The recital was rather unique in pattern as the young performers were trying for higher marks, some of them being successful while others kept their original standing.

Master of Ceremonies was Leonard Rousseau, aided Charles Bach and added a little spice and comedy to the program.

The grade one piano class consisted of: Rita Rivet, Morinville; Jean and Yvonne Comeau, Riviere-qui-Barre.

The grade two piano class: Camille Miskew, Morinville; Lola Kular, St. Albert; Angeline Sotaert, Villeneuve.

Grades four to seven piano classes: Marcelle Cyr, Vimy; Eliza Bourbonnais, Riviere-qui-Barre; Remi Sotaert, Villeneuve.

Grades two to four violin classes: Marlene Charest, Morinville; Vincent Sotaert, Villeneuve; Roger Benion, St. Albert and Charles Bachand, Morinville.

Total Classes: Doris Steiner, a four-year old Colorture, Soprano of Edmonton delighted her listeners with her three-octave range voice of flute-like quality and her beautiful rendition of "Old Folks at Home" will also be long and well remembered.

Caroline Eskdale, Soprano of Nanaimo gave an outstanding performance which included an aria from "Sempre" by Handel and "Hear This House" by Mendelssohn. She was ably assisted at the piano by her father, Rev. Eskdale, also of Nanaimo.

These two young singers were new to our Morinville audience but we hope they will come again in the very near future.

After intermission, fourteen-year old George Clark, accordionist of Villeneuve, played four numbers and was well received for his splendid playing.

The program was closed with the higher grade piano and violin pupils presenting an exhibition of piano and violin technique.

Tune and different touches required in that grade was explained in a brief lecture by Mr. J. Surette. Those taking part were Remi Sotaert and Eliza Bourbonnais.

David Middleton, violinist, gave an outstanding performance. His numbers were: Meditation Thais, Vassaget, Liebesfreud, Fritz Kreisler, Carade, Mott.

The Morinville Music Club was well rewarded for handling the program and extends thanks to all out-owners who braved the muddy roads to attend.

Examination results will be published at a later date.

Deer Seen By Two Lads

MORINVILLE—Norman Houle and Frank Chevalier were more than surprised when they saw a deer springing across a farmyard near John Gauthier's home on June 22.

It is perhaps fortunate that the boys had run out of shells for their .22 rifle as the temptation to shoot the animal might have proved irresistible.

Fishermen Marooned On Tiny Island

MORINVILLE—A group of avid fishermen had their enthusiasm stably dampened recently when they were marooned for two nights and a day on an island about two acres in size on Lake Fawcett.

Jerry Desnoyers, Jerry St. Germain, Bert Craig, Johnny Saunders and Nick Wofford had planned an overnight fishing jaunt there but on the following morning, to a behold, the waves were too formidable to risk a crossing to the mainland.

With only a tent for shelter, the fishermen maintain they had a good time, though a cold one.

Asked if their convictions held out, Jerry Desnoyers replied, "Oh yes, the fishing was good!"

Community Group Show Practical Interest In Boysdale Camp

EDMONTON—Several individuals and groups have shown an interest in the Boysdale Camp since it got its start, but the interest shown by the Eastwood Community is worthy of special mention at this time.

This league has invested seven hundred dollars in an acre but and fixed it to make comfortable living quarters for eight boys. And now they are anxious to receive applications from Eastwood boys who wish to attend the camp this year.

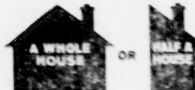

Age requirements ask that the boy be between the ages of nine and fourteen years. All he is asked to take with him to the camp is his own bedding. There is no charge for the camp, but those who wish to contribute may do so. Parents of Eastwood boys wishing to attend this camp are asked to contact Mrs. H. Hargrave at 11338 81 Street or telephone 71346.

Another major contribution to Boysdale was presented last week by Mr. Graham Yeats, a city garage man who donated two rowboats which he assembled from kits. Mr. Yeats has also undertaken to service and maintain these boats during the winter season to ready them for the following year's operation.

Boysdale Camp is located at the junction of the Sturgeon and North Saskatchewan rivers northeast of the town of Fort Saskatchewan and is supported by the Federation of Community Leagues and the Cosmopolitan Club.

At present a campaign for funds is underway to raise $100 for improvements to the camp. To date more than half of the objective has been raised, an amount of $50. This money will be spent on improvements to the dam to provide better and more permanent swimming facilities. Another change expected is a switch from their own power

New School Figure Is $73,000.00

Last week a news report stated that the new school at Horse Hall to be built by Napoleon Bailey for the Sturgeon School Division would cost $73,000.00. This was a typographical error as the correct figure given us by Ernest Meaden, Secretary of the School Division is $73,000.00.

Raise Million For Cancer

G. R. A. Rice, president of the Alberta division of the Canadian Cancer Society, told delegates to the annual meeting of the Grand Council of the Society held in Fredericton Tuesday that during the past five years the people of Alberta, through their volunteer donations to the cancer crusade, had contributed almost $1,000,000 to the cancer fight.

"The net profit on the investment—real achievement in the field of cancer research, the saving of lives through public education and the relief of suffering—is already beginning to show," he said. "We have far to go to reach our goal and we undoubtedly will have to carry on for many more years toward attainment of the final victory." After referring to the importance of the work carried on by the thousands of volunteers who were indispensable, Mr. Rice said the Alberta division looked with pride at the record of the past year, particularly in the completion of the McEachern Cancer Research laboratory at the University of Alberta, and the development and extension of their educational work.

During 1952 it was reported the cancer crusade in Alberta realized $253,710.78. Of this $100,430.63 went into research and professional education; $81,312.29 was spent on public education and $71,963.12 was spent on welfare services.

Cause Of Prison Riots

The American Prison Association recently released a report which terms prison riots "costly and dramatic symptoms of a faulty prison administration."

Noting the "unprecedented number of outbreaks of mass violence and mutinous behavior" in our prisons in the last three years, the report concludes that "... the underlying cause of poor prison administration stems from a lack of public understanding of the problems and from a consequent reluctance to provide adequate financial support and to keep politics out of management."

The report's conclusion is that riots are usually the result of neglect of correctional and penal institutions, which sometimes reaches the proportion of criminal negligence. It expresses the opinion that the immediate issue which usually causes a prison riot is only a symptom of basic faults of policy.

Because we haven't had any prison riots in Alberta, it would seem that perhaps prison conditions in this country are a lot better than those south of the border. It is generally conceded that politics have little or no part in the carrying out of Canadian justice.

However, it should be a warning to us, this prison-riot condition that exists in the United States, to check up and be sure our own house is in order. The modern concept of prison life is that it should reform and rehabilitate the wrong-doer and not be inflicted just as a punishment to make him embittered for life.

Good Business Seen

Dr. Arthur M. Weimer, dean of the School of Business of Indiana University, recently told a group of savings and loan officials that it now appears that business will continue good throughout 1953.

Dr. Weimer admitted that the economy was now experiencing weak spots here and there but he predicted that a high level business activity would continue throughout the year. Weimer believes higher interest rates on GI and FHA loans have given an impetus to home-building and that building this year will equal or exceed the volume of 1952. He also notes an unusually high rate of personal savings in the early months of 1953 and a high rate of business spending for equipment and new space.

The Indiana University School of Business does not expect business activity to move sharply in either direction in the near future. He says farmers are being pinched by lower prices received and high costs, which have not come down proportionately with prices received, and that they may continue to feel negative results from this squeeze. He does not expect the pinch to develop into a depression, however.

The 'Snowmen'

In all the fanfare and excitement over the scaling of Mount Everest recently by a New Zealand beekeeper and an Indian guide, little mention was made of the "abominable Snowmen" who are supposed to inhabit the slopes of the world's highest mountain. The snowmen have long been reported on the heights of Everest and climbers in years past have returned with varying evidence as to their existence.

Edmund P. Hillary, the Auckland beekeeper who is one of two men who have looked down from the top of Everest, was convinced of the existence of the snowmen before he left on the recent Everest expedition. He is reported to have said he saw photographs of footprints of the creatures brought back from the slopes of Everest by former climbers.

In fact, Hillary was said to have had two goals in life—the scaling of Everest and the capture of one of these snowmen. Now we hear that Hillary is going back to the Himalayas. Maybe he'll accomplish his goal this time. He can have a lot of fun looking, anyhow.

Best Brains At Stake

By Dr. H. E. Smith, Dean, Faculty of Education
Some say the Composite School will destroy the best brains in our society. Others say it is the only democratic and proper answer to the demand for universal high school education. Possibly in this case both points of view may be true. It may be that you can't at the same time stimulate the best brains and satisfy mediocre talent in a common high school. If the curriculum must be watered down to the level of the average student, obviously the brighter minds will suffer. On the contrary, if adolescent youth were segregated on basis of mental capacity into schools of different types, what then would become of the honored principle of equality? We seem to be faced with a hard dilemma.

The secondary schools of England are of three rather clearly differentiated types. The Grammar School takes at the age of twelve, and on the basis of sharply cutting tests, the academically minded and the brightest pupils. These are set on the road to university and other institutions of the most advanced training.

The Junior Technical School is open to twelve-year-olds with a bent for manual arts. Many of its graduates will go into industry at fifteen or sixteen, and some will go forward to various institutions of somewhat specialized training in vocational fields.

The third type, the Modern School, will receive the great mass of twelve-year-olds and give them educational opportunities similar to those offered in our composite schools. But few can expect admission to universities because the program lacks rigor and intensity. Many of the critics of our own composite school contend that it also lacks rigor and intensity. The bright pupils, they assert, have not been challenged, have never been pressed to discover their powers, have learned to be satisfied with only their second or third best.

Our Canadian universities are saying this, too. But can the English system be squared with our conception of democracy? Will Canadian parents submit to a segregation of their children into institutions of contracting level? Our answer at present seems to be "no." The composite school is itself the answer.

This is but one of many basic problems in Canadian education. The field needs not only many teachers for the everyday work of the schools. It needs also many teachers and many citizens willing to tackle basic issues in education. Here at least is one challenge to our best brains.

Heavy Rains Mixed Blessings

In the Prairie Provinces the heavy rains of late have held up seeding operations, particularly in the southern districts. It is estimated that five to 20 per cent of the wheat acreage still remains to be sown, and in view of the lateness of the season it is expected that some of this acreage will be planted to coarse grains and some will go to summer-fallow. Weeds are a serious problem in some areas, but in general the crops are in good condition.

In North Central States, U.S.A., planting of the spring wheat crop is near completion. Only in parts of North Dakota and Montana does any appreciable acreage remain to be planted. Moisture conditions are ample in all sections of the spring wheat region, and the outlook is bright in spite of lateness.

Dumb Girls Best Wives?

Dr. Mary Macaulay, a British marriage counselor, told the National Marriage Guidance Council in England recently that dumb girls sometimes make the best wives. Dr. Macaulay cautions against the intellectual wife, or one who reads too many books.

The girl whose only ambition is to be a wife and mother, and who does what comes naturally, and occasionally blows off some steam, has an excellent outlook for success in marriage, according to Dr. Macaulay. But the girl with a graduate school degree—the intellectual type—has a "poor outlook." Part of the reason for this, according to the British expert, is that people good with their minds are often not good with their emotions.

That's what the feminine counselor says, and the group to which she spoke (composed of some hundred educated women) is reported to have applauded her words loudly. There may be more to the "dumb blonde" than meets the eye.

OLD AGE SECURITY

A MILLION DOLLARS A DAY

The federal government is now spending nearly a million dollars a day to provide security and assistance to our senior citizens. Old age security for those over 70 years of age, now paid entirely by the federal government is costing $345,916,000 a year. The 50 per cent of old age assistance to those 65 to 69 years of age is costing the federal government $27,000,000 a year, or a total of $355,916,000 a year, nearly a million dollars for each day of the year, including Sundays.

A year and a half ago federal government expenditure of old age pensions was costing about $100,000,000 a year for about 300,000 pensioners; the federal government paying 75 per cent of the basic pension and the provinces 25 per cent.

The new system commenced in January, 1952. Now the federal government is paying 100 per cent of the basic pension to those over 70 and the number of pensioners has increased to 684,127. In addition, the federal government is paying 50 per cent of the basic pension to 87,615 persons aged 65 to 69 years. The effect of the change has been to increase federal government expenditure for old age security and assistance from about $100,000,000 a year to about $355,916,000, and to decrease the total provincial expenditures for this purpose by about $18,000,000 a year.

In 1950-51 the government of Saskatchewan paid out $223,000 as its 25 per cent share of basic old age pensions. This year, 1952-53, the estimated expenditure of the province's 50 per cent share of assistance to those 65 to 69 is $12,197,000, a reduction of $11,600,000 in expenditures on assistance to the aged.

The old age security and assistance now being provided by the Liberal government at Ottawa is the "most generous in the world. It is part of a greatly expanded program of social security expenditures by the federal government on assistance to the aged, to the blind, on family allowance and health on which the federal government is spending about 1 1/2 billion dollars a year. This is about three times the entire revenues of the federal government in a year just before the last war.

Nurse's Urgent Desire To Marry May Be Driving Eligible Boy Friends Away

I read your letters every week and think you give good advice. I would like very much for you to help me as I have been disappointed so many times.
I am a nurse and enjoy my work very much. I am a member of a church and go each Sunday. I have lots of friends and enjoy making new ones.
I took care of my father until he passed away about three years ago and I am now in my thirties.
I love a boy, whom I met through a friend. I went out with him twice, and the last time he told me that he loved me and that he would be back in about a week or write. He hasn't come or written and it has been about a month.
I couldn't get time off so I wrote and told him I couldn't. And now I can get off, so I wrote and told him so. Did I do wrong in writing him? I love him. People say they can't see why I don't meet the right person. I would like to marry and be happy.
Write me please.

Answer:
It is perfectly normal at your age to want to marry and have a home and family. And in your profession you surely have the opportunity of meeting eligible men. But I wonder if you are not so obvious in your desire to marry, that you are driving your prospects away before they really get to know you.
This young man you are worried about has only dated you twice. It usually takes longer than that for people to decide that they are in love and begin thinking about marriage.
The surest way to make a man stop dating is for a girl to become serious before he does. After all, the man likes to think he is the pursuer even when he is not.
I don't think you did wrong in writing him.

writing to him that you could get time off, since you had written before that you could not. If he is the sensitive type, he may have thought you didn't want to see him. But you have let him know that you would like to have him come so don't follow it up. Let him make the next move.

Be friendly and nice when you do see him but don't try to push him into marriage too fast.
It is often wise to make plans to meet and entertain young men but keep those things to yourself and don't be too obvious about them.

Gideons Comment On Vermilion "Red School House"

The Vermilion district now has a "Camp" of Gideons, the men responsible for placing Bibles in hotels and hospitals and who give grade five school children each a gift of a New Testament.

In the school term just closing, the Gideon magazine, Torch and Trumpet reported from Toronto that:

"When Grade V pupils in the public school at Vermilion were presented with their Youth Testaments in the middle of March by Gideons Roy Watkins, Obert Gundersen and Field Secretary Hugh Coldridge, it marked the gift of over 250 Testaments to the school division. The Gideon trio were introduced to the scholars by Supt. S. Simonsen."

The editors commented that this was a case of pupils attending a red school house in Vermilion receiving a gift of red-covered testaments.

ERROR COSTS TWO TEETH
CHICAGO — Roberta Ann Cole, 11, was sent to the dentist for treatment of two molars. By mistake Roberta went to the wrong dentist's office. Dr. M. B. Cohan extracted the two teeth instead of treating them. Now Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Cohan, the girl's parents, are suing Cohan for $100,000 for extracting the teeth. Both dentists have offices on the same floor in the same building.

At home I am always warning my small niece to wipe the table before she lays it.

One day we were visiting a friend of not very long standing. As she prepared to lay the table for tea, little Joan said, "Mommy, says to be sure to wipe that dirty table Mrs.—" You can imagine how red my face was!

E. S. of Gibbons

One evening my boy friend and I were returning a table which I had borrowed. I opened the door to push the table inside of the neighbor's kitchen. Being dark I turned on my flashlight. There stood the man himself in his underwear. Was I ever embarrassed!

THE LIGHTER SIDE

"This Is So Sudden"

Recipient of Lean Year proposal — I regret I cannot give you an answer now, Gertrude. Ask me again in 1954.

Lucky Man

"Angus, they tell me you and Brother Donald were in a railway accident. Did you collect any damages?"

"We did. But never a shilling would we have, had I not thocht to kick Donald in the face."

New Version

History Teacher — Mr. Stephens, who was it that followed King Edward VI. of England?

Mr. Sophistic — Queen Mary.

Teacher — And who followed Mary?

Mr. Sophistic — Her little lamb.

Probably So!

A dear old lady was passing a rural stream where a company of nude soldiers was enjoying a refreshing swim.

"Oh, dear!" she exclaimed. "These must be our shock troops."

Not Yet

"Have you any children, Mr. Smith?"

"Yes, three daughters."

"Do they live at home with you?"

"Not one of them — they are not married yet."

Quite Natural

Wife: "If you took less interest in horse racing we should be better off today. You've had horses on the brain all your life."

Husband: "Yes. Quite right. That's why I happened to marry a nag I suppose."

Habit of Complaint

"I suppose you were thankful for the heavy rain."

"Oh, yes," replied Farmer Cornfossil, "though I don't see why them weather folks couldn't provide to keep it in the fields instead of letting it stray around muddin' up the roads."

Dear, Dear

Here's to you dear, And here's to the dear that's not here.

If the dear that's not was here, my dear,

I wouldn't be calling you "dear," my dear.

She Approved

"If you can't do more work, I shall have to get another maid."

"Yes, I could do with an assistant."

Dead Three Minutes; Revives

BROOKS — A young married woman died for three minutes during an operation at Brooks and lived to tell the tale.

The woman who died, Mrs. Angela Crookley, arrived in Canada only six weeks ago from Germany and was undergoing an operation for an internal complaint.

The 28-year-old mother of one child owes her resurrection to Dr. W. C. Prowse and his assistant, Dr. J. A. Reynar.

When her heart stopped beating on the operating table, Dr. Prowse made a deep incision to massage the heart while Dr. Reynar pumped oxygen down the throat.

A heavy dose of cortisone was administered and Dr. Prowse massaged the heart for 2½ to 3 minutes. He had all put given up hope when the heart bounced back into action.

Dr. Prowse intends submitting a summary of the case to the Canadian Medical Journal so that other doctors may benefit from his experience.

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — Sam Lybago, 64, lost a diamond ring at the beach 19 years ago. DES MOINES, Iowa — Betty Hingaman, 21, lost her diamond ring, worth $100, on her first day in a new job in a potato-ship factory. She lost it as she was pouring chips onto a conveyor, which led to the packaging unit. Hearing of her misfortune, the Des Moines Tribune ran a Page 1 article about it, reminding any potato-ship buyer who found a diamond ring in the bag that it was not a prize, but belonged to Betty.

Former Singapore Resident Visits Mannville

MANNVILLE — Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hawley is Mr. Hawley's sister, Mrs. Robert Baker o Vancouver. Mrs. Baker had several narrow escapes during the last war, when she and her late husband had to flee first from Malaya and then Singapore. They left Singapore just four days before the island capitulated. Mr. Baker, an engineer, was engaged in coal mining in the Malaya States. Mr. and Mrs. Baker had travelled widely and possessed first-hand knowledge of Japan, China, South Africa and the East Indies. Mr. Baker spent part of his boyhood at Singapore and later assisted in the construction of the naval base there.

According to this excerpt from an old country newspaper, Mr. and Mrs. Baker missed the Japanese fleet by only one hour and a half. In a small tugboat they journeyed from Singapore to Batavia, picking up many survivors until the ship was almost over-crowded. They existed on the meagre diet of tinnet foods, a few dried peas and a few sausages for the five days on board. Once the captain turned the ship around to make the Japanese believe they were travelling towards Singapore and not away from the city. Soon after arriving at Batavia, Mr. and Mrs. Baker were able to join other ship and by slow stages they reached a Scottish port.

Mr. Baker is at present living with her daughter and son-in-law, Capt. and Mrs. J. R. Lansell at Kerrville. Mr. Baker paid away in 1947.

DEATHS BY DROWNING take too many lives, and many organizations have organized swimming classes such as the one above. Another exceptional type of instruction in swimming is that of the RCAF survival school which teaches pupils to swim in three days.

City Playgrounds Open For Summer

Saturday saw the opening of another season of play and recreation at playgrounds throughout the city. Most of the playgrounds had arranged special programs to mark the opening day. Programs consisted of miniature parades, bonfires, freerolls, and there were some where there were free rides. At a few, the police and fire departments lent co-operation. The Recreation Commission, who operates the playgrounds, will have this year fourteen patrols and twenty playgrounds to look after. Each is under the supervision of specially trained young people who have been given a special intensive course of training for their work. Most of these young people are attending the University of Alberta. The playground course they receive cover such subjects as hobbies, handicrafts, all phases of sports and athletics, playground folk-dancing, child psychology and other related subjects. All of the supervisors hold their St. John Ambulance certificate in first aid.

Unemployment in the prairie provinces has been reduced by nearly one half since April, said J. W. Temple, prairie regional head of the unemployment commission visiting Calgary, Friday.

Number of applicants registered for jobs has been knocked down from its winter peak of 47,000 to 28,000.

Mr. Temple said there was an urgent need for pickers for the soft fruit harvest in B.C. and that applicants would receive cheap rail facilities.
